The general idea is that the club should be of a semi-professional character and the salary limit should be placed so low that the bigger cities will not grow beyond the smaller towns. It is to be feared that the rivalry between Butte and Helena would become so intense that their clubs would be of a stronger class than those of other cities. It is also doubtful if the receipts can be depended on to pay the salaries and expenses of a regular professional team. So far as Butte is concerned, it is believed that a creditable team can be put in the field out of Butte players, with the addition of one or two good batteries from the East. dea is that the club

A BROKEN SHAFT.

An Accident at the Anaconda Mine Will Cause a Lull in Work.

BUTTE, March 5.—An accident at the Anaconda mine about 12 o'clock to-day will result in throwing about 250 men out of employment for the next month or six weeks. The mishap spoken of was noth-ing less than the breaking of the big main shaft of the hoisting engine. main shaft of the hoisting engine. The cage was opposite the 800-foot level at the time and would have dropped to the bottom of the shaft had it not been that the brakes in the engine room were applied promptly. The shaft had been in position for about nine years and an examination of the broken ends leads to the conclusion that there has been a crack there for some time, although it was so small that it had always escaped discovery.

The main shaft is a solid piece of steel 11 inches in diameter. One can form from this an idea of the tension required to break such a massive piece of machinery. The accident practically disabled both engines, but by taking off the connections on one side a temporary arrangement was made whereby the men were hoisted out of the mine with one engine.

A new shaft is a necessity before any more work can be done with tha old engines.

The manufacturers of the engines, the

A new shaft is a necessity before any more work can be done with tha old engines.

The manufacturers of the engines, the L.P. Morris company of Philadelphia, Pa., have been telegraphed to for a new shaft and ordered to ship it at soon as possible. Chief Engiacer Halpin stated to-day that if the company had a new shaft in stock, which is very unlikely, it could be got in two or three weeks, but that if they had to forge and turn it, which was far more likely to be the case, it would take about six or seven weeks to get it here.

Work has already been commenced toward putting in the small engine formerly in use at the Mountain Con., which will be run until the arrival of the new shaft. By this means it will not be necessary to completely shut down the mine during the intervening time. Superintendent Kane thinks that about 200 men can be run with the small engine, instead of the 440 which have been employed up to-day. The small engine will be set up immediately in front of the big engine room.

BROCK'S DEATH.

An Investigation Conducted By the Coroner and a Jury.

BUTTE, March 5.-The coroner's inquest on the body of John A. Brock, the brake man who was killed in the Montana Union yards last night, was commenced here this evening before a jury composed of T. B. Harper, E. T. Owen, George Curry, H. Randebush, H. Wallace and Frank Carter. A. C. Kirkpatrick, foreman of the switch-ing crew, testified to the manner of Brock's ing crew, testified to the manner of Brock's death. Kirkpatrick was sitting on the front end of the engine, which was backing up at the time, and considered the affair as purely accidental.

Pat Mecks, the engineer in the switch engine, testified that Brock was first talking to him across the boiler and afterwards crossed over from the fireman's side and stepped down in the gangway. Mecks' attention was taken up by Brock when the fireman called to him that they were on the cars, and he reversed his engine, but it was too late to avert the catasgine, but it was too late to avert the catas were on the cars, and he reversed his engine, but it was too late to avert the catastrophe.

E. E. Smith, a helper, testified substantially as above, and John Burns, master of transportation, explained the custom of switching the cars. He said that Meeks had always been considered one of the best engineers on the road.

Mooney, the fireman of the engine, could not be found, and the inquest was postponed until Monday morning in order that his evidence might be secured. It is hardly probable that a verdict would have been returned to-night had Mooney been present, as Juryman Frank Carter stated that he would not sign a verdict while one of the jurymen was in an intoxicated condition. Brock's body will be shipped to Toronto, Canada, his former home, to-morrow afternoon, and will be accompanied by his sister, Miss Anna Brock. The employees of the Montana Union railway raised a purse of $300 for Miss Brock this afternoon.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE. Talk About the Next Annual Meeting of the Fire Department. BUTTE, March 5.-Although the annual meeting of the Butte City fire department looked forward to with more than the usual degree of anxiety on account of the lively contest which is likely to take place for the position of fire marshal. A delegation of friends to-day called upon George Lapp and urged him to allow his name to be used as a candidate for the office. Mr. Lapp declined to commit himself, but if he finds after looking around a little and is certain that the feeling is sufficiently strong in his direction, he will enter the race. Everybody knows the genial George race. Everybody knows the genial design and he is sure of a hearty support of a large number of friends. He is clear and cool headed in the time of danger and a skillful general, and would make a model chief.

Frank M. Murray, the present efficient head of the department, will be a candidate for reelection and is sure of a substantial following. Mr. Murray has held the position long enough so that all of the hoys know what he can do, and consequently no words of praise are needed.

Angus Cameron, the assistant chief of the department, is also understood to be desirous of going a step higher. Mr. Cameron has many friends among the members of the department who would be glad to see him pushed up a notch, and will bers of the department who would be glad to see him pushed up a notch, and will willingly assist him in making the short ascent to the top of the ladder.

So far as is known now, these will be the only candidates, and with a three-cornered fight the best man will be pretty sure to win. There is likely to be some quite lively skirmishing between now and the annual meeting of the department in April.

Trials and Tribulations Experienced in the Theatrical Business.

CARL KING'S COMBINATION

Broken Up and Financially Flat-Coming Good Attractions at Maguire's—Bobby Gaylor's "Sport McAllister."

BUTTE, March 5.—The experience of the Carl King combination in Butte is another piece of evidence in substantiation of Mo-Kee Rankin's assertion that there is no business that is less of a business than the theatrical business. Indications and plans or past experience go for nothing. The company had merit, and before the plans or past experience go for nothing. The company had merit, and before the night of the first performance everything pointed to a good business, but when the curtain went up King looked out upon an audience that could have been packed inside the box office. Everybody spoke well of the performance the next day, and the marvelous mind reader and the wonderful troubadours were spoken of everywhere. The manager was sure of crowded houses at the matinee and next evening performance. Seven dead-head tickets were taken in in the afternoon, and 33 in cash at night. A few weeks ago a company stopped at Butte just to fill in time. They had had experience in Butte and the company had not a great deal of merit, and consequently they did not expect much business. They had crowded houses every night. They were probably flattered with the business done here and will count upon Butte next season as one of their sure towns, and when they come again, full of hope, they will more than likely not clear expenses. "I have been in the theatrical business for 30 years, and I do not know any more about it now as a business than I did when I started in, said Mr. Rankin, and he probably stated a fact that has presented itself to every other actor of experience.

It is said that "Sport McAllister" was created for laughing purposes only, with no attempt at a plot. McAllister has a rival in politics in the person of Dennis McGinty, and their campaign speeches and experiences make up the show, while a number of clever specialties are thrown in as a side issue.

consequence several thieveries were committed there last night.

"We pay taxes," said one of the committee, "and we want protection and we will demand of the council that they give us protection or show why not. The nearest policeman is on Galena street. The rogues do their work where there are no police, and I can see no need of a policeman standing on the corner of Main and Broadway all day and another all night. No robbery is perpetrated there. We must have protection if we have to go up town in a body, abduct a policeman and keep him down there."
